

Back from trip to Uganda

TWO students from Burford School impressed an audience at Carterton town hall with a talk about their experiences of Uganda, Andrew Alexander writes.

Educational Trust, were part of a group of 13 students who went to Kalangala, an island on Lake Victoria, in July. There they were attached to a Bishop Dunstan secondary school, and were welcomed by the Ugandan national newspaper and the local MP.

The students raised money for the three-week trip through sponsorship and events like a danceathon, and Sam, 16, of Davis Close, Carterton, and Jade, 18, of Campion Close, Carterton, were given £150 each by the Carterton Educational Trust. On their return, they gave a presentation to trustees at the town hall.

Mr Clifford said: "It was wonderful to hear such enthusiasm about their trip."

The school's next project is to raise enough money to bring its Ugandan partners to Oxfordshire.
